Local Intern Skills Development Fund

The ethos of Scalabrini is to treat people with dignity and meaning, being caring and helpful and striving for excellence in the quality of the services we offer. Through the dedicated service of our interns and volunteers, we are able to increase the quality and the quantity of our services every year.

The Scalabrini Centre believes in fostering cultural, social and economic integration between migrants, refugees and South Africans. As our contribution toward skills training and development in South Africa, Scalabrini would like to offer internship opportunities to members of the local community. Recognizing that there is great struggle in undertaking an unpaid internship, we have developed a Local Intern Skills Development Fund to help make these positions available to those who would otherwise be unable to dedicate their time and service.

In order to maintain this fund we require a placement fee of R500. With this contribution we have the opportunity to extend a small stipend of support to two local interns a year. The payment of this fund may be made prior to departure or upon arrival at the centre. We appreciate your service to the centre and your contribution to the local community.

We look forward to welcoming you to our team!
